Springtime fair

Springtime was welcomed by many with visit to fair in Bay Shopping Center last couple of weeks. Here Kirk Allen plays ride on merry-go-round while Donald Dorn works at riding chores.

Ferris wheel

Ferris wheel at fair was fine on ground but soon got a little wobbly when wheel passed through low hanging clouds at top of ride.

Pull-a-string

Looks easy to hook teddy bear with one yank of string but fair-goers found many cords led to other destinations and bears remained securely sitting on shelves.

Speedsters

Speedsters Jay Benson and Donna Dougherty of Bay St. Louis, tried hand at double driving routine while engaged in bout on board car in Bay Shopping Center fair last week.

Betsy lingers on in beach road repair

The board of supervisors recently directed the attorney to proceed with validation of a $100,000 loan for road to the beachfront road. No petitions were filed in the State Highway Department to borrowing the money.

There was some doubt, however, that the project would be paid for advertising so simply. Frank Moore, state engineer for the highway department, forwarded a list of $100,000 project. The federal government is putting up $100,000 to repair the road damaged two and a half years ago in Hurricane Betsy and the county is to contribute $262,025 as its share. Besides the $100,000 from the loan, the county will tap the road protection bond fund for the balance.

Supervisors had first talked in terms of borrowing the $100,000 for three or four months but concluded Monday that a large repayment period was needed. Hancock Bank, which said earlier this year it would lend the money at 4 per cent interest, agreed to make the loan for 12 months. It is to be repaid more promptly if funds are available.

Low bid of Buftin's TV and Appliances for radio equipment for the sheriff's office was accepted on the motion of Supervisor C.A. Russ, III, seconded by Dolph Kellar who commended he had never voted for the high bid and didn't intend to now. Buftin's price was $6,508.10.

A $250 advertisement was authorized in a program to be published by the Hancock County Cancer Crusade. The board upped from $12.50 to $100 its ad in the Jackson Touchdown (Cont. on Page 8-A.)

On Supervisor Dolph Kellar's motion, the board voted to fill Bay St. Louis monthly recording city prisoners in the county jail. This plan was scheduled several years ago but was never put in effect.

Henrietta first collected came from Boat 3's justice of the peace No. 2, Nollus Rinsda, who fined in $7,688 in the first three months of the year, got $8,076 in 1966, leaving a net of $3,092.50.

Blade to fall on weedy lots in Waveland

The Town of Waveland moved this week in a determined effort to clean up property in the town judged to be a hazard to health or a fire threat. Eight notices of intent have been issued, each stating the town intends to move onto the property concerned and clean it up to the extent of $100 worth of work to be assessed against the owner.

City votes front foot way, hearing Apr. 26

City Commission Council Monday adopted a resolution announcing its intention to issue special assessment bonds under the law which provides for front foot assessment to finance improvements to Bay St. Louis streets.

Eighty-five strips of streets covering 29.1 miles are listed in the legal notices appearing on Page 6-B of this issue of the Sea Coast Echo. A hearing has been set for 10 a.m. Friday, April 26, for any property owners on these streets to present any objections to the proposals. Specifications for the 20-year design streets, prepared by Joseph Richard, consulting engineer from Baton Rouge, La., are on file with City Clerk J. Cyril Glover.

Actual scope of the work will not be determined until the protest hearings are concluded. If the property owners go with the plan announced by council, the city's share of the cost is estimated at $225,000, John A. Scafide explained Wednesday. The property assessment may be paid in cash or in 10 annual installments with interest not over six per cent. The city would issue obligations not exceeding the entire cost of the project, payable in 10 annual installments with interest not exceeding six per cent, payable semi-annually. Work is to include drainage as well as paving.

The citizens' advisory committee recommended this method at a special session last Friday night. Scafide said the vote was unanimous among the 22-odd members present.

"In order to hold the cost per front foot to a reasonable and practical figure, our plan provides that no unit assessment will go over and exceed $2 per front foot," the mayor declared. "Inasmuch as several of our streets are major heavily traveled thoroughfares and are much more expensive to construct than residential streets, we feel that this increased cost should be paid from by a general tax levy in which all of the people will share."

The general tax levy will also provide the funds for the city to pay for the cost of intersections and front footage abutting city property.

"Since there are several miles of streets where the front foot cost will not amount to $2, (Cont. on Page 8-A.)

Waveland needs seen, HEW-confab slated

William E. Brind of Bay St. Louis was named as a new member of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees. Robert Hamilton was re-elected president, Paul R. Henley, secretary, and Sam L. Favre, Jr., attorney, at Monday night's meeting in Bay High School.

Brind was appointed for the usual four-year term and replaced Charles Thomas who has served five years. Elections of officers were all unanimous. Other trustees are Frank Wheat and Howard Adams.

After a strong pitch for a library and other improvements for Waveland's elementary school by Henley, who lives in Waveland, trustees agreed help was needed there and at Hamilton's suggestion, Henley was instructed to note in the minutes of the meeting a reminder for members to study the matter further.

A heated discussion between Henley and superintendent Joe D. McCullough arose when Henley said he was of the opinion the Waveland school was not getting as much as it should. "The kids down there should have the same opportunity as the kids here," Henley said. McCullough replied "I admit we need more help at Waveland and we are working on it."

We're Growing

City sewer connections still lag

Sewer connections are still suffering from a winter lull, City Building Inspector Harry Benjamin said this week.

Only 12 permits to connect to the new system were issued last month and it's been slow ever since auto tax time in October, Benjamin said. Thanksgiving and Christmas curtailed the December traffic, then the rains came in January and February.

To date 1,349 permits have been issued and 1,191 jobs have been completed. Most of the back of town area has connected to the system but it is running slow along the beach and in the business districts, the inspector observed.

Commissioner of Utilities J. Cyril Glover said the city may need to adopt a supplementary compelling ordinance to the one of 1966 requiring householders to connect to the system within six months after the completion.

A Conservative View

by James J. Kilpatrick

A look at the future

By Drow Pearson

WASHINGTON - If moderate Negro leaders are able to still widespread Negro violence in retaliation for the Dr. Martin Luther King, his assassination may win some for his people what he in life was achieving only for them.

For the American people to have a conscience, which at sometimes stumbles, and, as after the murder of Dr. John F. Kennedy, they may now be shocked into, the violence of hoodlums does not blunt the sense of guilt of Americans now freed.

Unethical school could turn that sense of guilt into too much of the progress we have made toward rigorance of centuries.

This is why President Johnson made his appeal for nonviolence to reject the senseless violence which struck Dr. King. Even Congress might now recognize that the open air school, and the appropriations needed desperately to alter the conditions are clear and urgent necessities, unless racial violence should break out all doctrines of reason.

Dr. King would not have wanted strife after his return to this writer's home in the summer of 1964 to discuss problems in Mississippi and how best to solve them. At length of the tactics of Mahatma Gandhi, the dependence for hundreds of millions of people of India on nonviolent methods, and Dr. King was certain those methods were the way for the Negroes of America.

By the time 1861 struck, he had proved his point. By the path of nonviolence he had already established great credit in the policies of the administration. He had not produced the change which the militants demanded, but his methods were showing steady progress and were destined to produce more and more.

Mahatma Gandhi did not achieve independence for his country in eight, or ten, or twelve years. But Dr. King, like Gandhi, recognized that centuries of mistreatment and oppression could not be removed overnight. He had to be done step-by-step. In the United States, where Negroes are only about 10 per cent of the population, two justice and equality would not be obtained until the 50 per cent white population was persuaded of the righteousness of his cause.

It did not matter to King that to the Southern white Christians it was a liberal institution. It did matter to him that the Negroes who could stir up war in the streets—because he had seen war in the streets—could never lead to the peaceful expression his people need in a basically white society.

He knew the estimates that would be brought on if Negroes were created a great white backlash which could destroy the position of a better American which he and his followers were willing to bring.

Thus his nonviolence is a tragedy, not only for the Negro American but for all Americans. And it will be an even greater tragedy if Martin Luther King's teachings are now ignored of America.

...and was plying all his long knowledge, experience and power of Mississippi and wanted a strong ally. Finally there have been healthy improvements in the state in the South, Charles Evans, brother of the late Congressman in Jackson, and, though defeated, helped the triumph of the election.

The Union, responsible for some of the worst atrocities, has been debilitated and floundered in strength. As I look back on the past I find a Union challenge to broaden the scope of the Republic in Atlanta in July, 1864. Perhaps the only way to win was to take military picture of Congress.

Congress and Frustration

On the morning of Wednesday, James Campbell, a black man, was arrested in Washington. Campbell was charged with the murder of a white woman, a charge which was later dropped. Campbell was released on bail of $25,000, which was paid by a local black community leader. Campbell was later released on bail of $25,000, which was paid by a local black community leader. JERRY LANE, CHEVROLET SALES MAN, STANDING NEXT TO HIS PURCHASE OF NEW CHEVROLET TRUCK.

Have been wanting a new pickup truck and mentioned this to my good friend, Joe Bernhardt at Main St. Enco Station. Joe told me that he had bought his pickup from Jerry Lane Chevrolet at Gerry Lane Chevrolet, was completely pleased with his purchase and recommended Jerry Lane to me.

He was right, I got just the Chevrolet truck I wanted and I, in turn, want to recommend Jerry and Gerry Lane Chevrolet to all of my friends.

MRS. A.L. SULLIVAN ACCEPTS DELIVERY OF HER NEW CHEVROLET FROM SALESMAN JOHN GALLAGHER.

We had purchased our last car, a 1962 Chevrolet, from Gulf Chevrolet and had since had it serviced at Gerry Lane Chevrolet. We were so pleased with their service, and the performance of our other Chevrolet, that we just naturally returned to John Gallagher at Gerry Lane Chevrolet when in the market for a new car. We feel sure we will enjoy our new Chevrolet just as much as we did our other one.
